California Privacy Disclosures

California residents who have an established business relationship with Lilly may have the right to request information regarding Lilly's disclosure of certain PI to Third Parties for their direct marketing purposes. To make a request for such information, you may contact us using the information in this document.

Sale and Sharing of Personal Information

Lilly does not sell PI about California consumers that are protected under the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018 ("CCPA") or California Privacy Rights Act ("CPRA") to third parties or share such PI with third parties for targeted or cross-context behavioral advertising, as those terms are defined by applicable law. When Lilly permits third parties to collect PI through our websites or discloses PI to third parties, Lilly is doing so pursuant to various exceptions to the opt-out rights provided for under California law. For example, Lilly permits third parties acting on its behalf to process PI for the business purposes described in this Notice including advertising and marketing services (excluding cross-context behavioral advertising). In addition, Lilly may permit third-party advertising solutions to process PI when you direct us to do so by agreeing to the use of such technologies to personalize Lilly's content and ads. Consistent with the above, Lilly does not sell or share for cross-context behavioral advertising PI relating to consumers who it knows are under 16 years of age.

Sensitive Personal Information

Lilly does not use or disclose your sensitive PI except for limited purposes that are authorized by law. For example, Lilly may collect information about your health or medical diagnosis to provide you specific functionality or products or services that you have requested. California law does not afford you rights to limit the use or disclosure of sensitive PI for these purposes, although we may nonetheless ask for your consent or provide you choices about how we use this information depending on the relevant context.
