

PAUL HASTINGS

Our Litigation and Dispute Resolution Practice

What Sets Us Apart

Our London litigators form an integral part of our global litigation practice and provide services across a wide range of contentious areas including company and commercial disputes, banking, insolvency, intellectual property, employment law, data privacy, reputation management, civil and criminal fraud, internal investigations, bribery and corruption, money laundering and international arbitration. The team acts for a varied client base consisting of financial institutions, public and private companies, high net worth individuals and private clients.

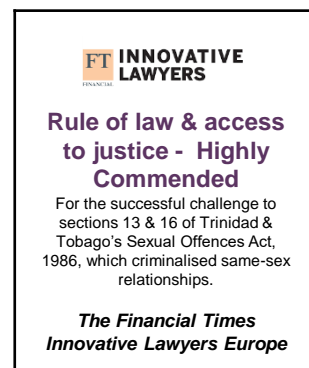

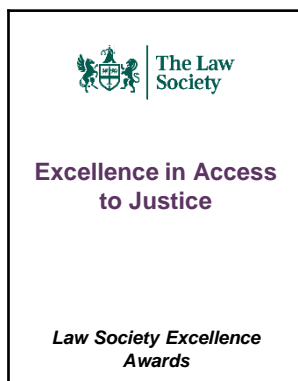

Market Leading Expertise: Minimising the risk of litigation is often a key objective for most clients but sometimes disputes cannot be avoided or litigation is advisable to secure a strategic advantage. Our London litigators understand the business implications of litigation and are trusted by clients to counsel them through their most complex and significant disputes. We work with our clients to protect, preserve and enhance their personal and business interests, assets and reputation. We use our significant experience to devise commercially viable solutions and achieve the best results. The team's skill and high level of client service has been recognized by leading UK publications and directories, including Legal 500.

Fully Integrated Team: Our London litigation team sits within our multi-disciplinary global litigation practice which consists of lawyers working across teams in Europe, the US and Asia. Through this global footprint, we are able to provide seamless legal advice and strategy across various jurisdictions in order to meet our clients' needs and handle high-stakes litigation, often with a cross-border or multi-jurisdictional dimension.

Commercially Tailored Service: We focus carefully on the commercial and strategic objectives of our clients in order to provide tailored advice and representation in all kinds of disputes and at all levels of the court system. We work closely with our clients and the best barristers in the UK to craft innovative litigation strategies that support their business priorities and obtain results.

Dedicated Team: We build meaningful relationships with our clients and assign a dedicated team on every matter to ensure that we provide a service which is partner-led and more responsive, thoughtful and dynamic.
