Complex orders, made simple

Choose a restaurant, share the link with your group, and invite them to add their orders. You can even schedule orders in advance.

Food brings your team together

Give everyone the opportunity to order exactly what they want at your next lunch and learn, team brainstorm, or client meeting.

Help your team feel the appreciation

85% of employees feel more appreciated by their employer when they receive meal benefits, and 79% report feeling more productive.*

Here's how it works:

Plan your group order up to a week in advance and choose one or more restaurants.

Set a spending limit and delivery time, then share the unique link with your group.

After all items have been added, the admin checks out and the receipt is auto-expensed.
