

Policy Matters

Your weekly digest of policy reports that matter.
Edited by Toby Green and Gary Price of Policy Commons.

Did you know that when you're reading and driving, you're being watched? Two reports unveil unexpected findings.

- How Publishers and Platforms Have Reshaped Reading in the Digital Age
- It's Official: Cars Are the Worst for Privacy

Sports and climate change: how much heat can players handle? The question, posed in 2015 by the now defunct Climate Institute in Australia, became very real last week for administrators at the US Tennis Open in New York and the Rugby World Cup in France.

Injustice and Indigenous Peoples: The Yoorrook Justice Commission is the first formal truth-telling process into historical and ongoing injustices experienced by First Peoples in Victoria, Australia. Their report into Victoria's Child Protection and Criminal Justice Systems has just been released.

Ukraine-Russia war: The International Working Group on Russian Sanctions (the Yermak-McFaul Expert Group), based at Stanford, has just released two new papers:

- Using Energy Sanctions to Shorten the War
- Why and How the West Should Seize Russia's Sovereign Assets to Help Rebuild Ukraine, to be read in conjunction with New Lines Institute's Multilateral Asset Transfer: A Proposal for Ensuring Reparations for Ukraine

Back to work? The World Values Survey takes a close look at Millennials' attitude to work in What the World Thinks About Work

Nagorno-Karabakh & Genocide: Last Saturday there was positive news that the Lachin corridor would be re-opened, but according to the Lemkin Institute for Genocide Prevention the risk of genocide remains.

International Tax & G20: OECD Secretary-General's Tax Report to G20 Leaders includes a 138 country statement on the two-pillar solution to the tax challenges of the international digital economy.

Citizens' panels in policymaking: Greater ambition is needed says EU Democracy Reform Observatory

As part of our ongoing efforts to preserve content from defunct organizations, we are currently sourcing all reports from The Climate Institute, which ran from 2005-2017. They will soon all be securely available and preserved in Policy Commons. If you know of important NGOs and think tanks that have closed their doors do let us know so we can preserve their content too.

Thank you University of Edinburgh.

Last week, University of Edinburgh suggested we add India's Mariwala Health Initiative to Policy Commons (we've indexed 35 of their reports so far). Remember, we're here to help you index and preserve content from IGOs, NGOs, think tanks, research centers, cities, government agencies. If we're missing organizations that are important for you, drop us a line. Together, we can make Policy Commons even more comprehensive.

Thanks for staying informed with Policy Matters from Policy Commons.

We choose reports from definitive sources around the globe that are data-rich and timely. Most often they'll be hot off the press, but sometimes we'll include older reports we've just uncovered. From time to time, we also share key product updates and information through this channel.

Visit us!

Twitter

LinkedIn

Youtube

