Version: 1

Question type: Text

Welcome to this survey about health attitudes and behaviours conducted by Cancer Research UK. We will be using the results to inform what we should be doing now and in the future. Anonymised results will be shared with public health bodies across the UK, NHS organisations and charities, and the general public. It is our intention to publish the results of this research project in academic journals and present findings at conferences. You will not be identified in any reports, publications or presentations.

The information we collect will be stored safely in a national archive and shared with other researchers so that it can be used for research in the future which is in the public interest. Any information that could identify you will be removed so that no one who may wish to download it in the future will know who you are.

Your participation in this survey is voluntary and you can choose not to answer any question by selecting the 'Prefer not to say' option.

We have tested the survey and found that, on average it takes around 15 minutes to complete. This time may vary depending on factors such as your Internet connection speed and the answers you give.

Please click the forward button below to continue.

In the future, it may be possible for people to do the cervical screening test themselves at home (HPV self-sampling). This might involve using a vaginal swab (like a long cotton bud) to take a sample from the vagina (it wouldn't need to be from the cervix) or by collecting a sample of urine (wee). Imagine when you are next invited for cervical screening, you have two choices..

- 1) Make an appointment at your GP surgery or sexual health clinic to have cervical screening done by a nurse or doctor (as happens now)
- 2) Request a self-sampling kit to be sent to your home so you can do the test yourself and send it directly to a laboratory in a pre-paid envelope
