Ishikawa Prefectural Museum of Art

A national treasure on permanent display!

The Ishikawa Prefectural Museum of Art exhibits masterpieces of arts and crafts related to the region, including valuable items from the Maeda family, the feudal lords of the Kaga domain (present-day Ishikawa) during the Edo period.

Among the must-see works is the Iroekiji-koro, a pheasant-shaped ceramic incense burner made by the renowned potter Nonomura Ninsei (1648-1690). Despite being a piece of pottery, it was designated a National Treasure in 1951 for its sculptural form and richly colored decoration.

Unlike other national treasures, the Iroekiji-koro remains on permanent display.
