A note from our Chief People Officer

Kerry Heaton
Chief People Officer

Investment decisions aren't just numbers on a spreadsheet – they affect real people. From the millions counting on us for their retirement to the thousands working at our portfolio companies, what we decide matters.

At Hg, we're making progress on building a more diverse team year after year and we know diverse teams make better calls – not just because it sounds good, but because we've seen it in action. We've learned that getting these decisions right takes all kinds of perspectives. Different backgrounds, different experiences, different ways of thinking – that's part of our key to success.

Our gender pay gap data reflects the distribution of men and women across our organisation rather than measuring equal pay for equal work.

We are determined to narrow our gap. As of April 5, 2024, women comprise over 50% of our UK office and 37% of our investment executives. While these statistics are promising, we must keep concentrating on development, mentoring, workplace culture, and benefits to ensure women continue advancing towards senior positions.

Our goal remains to distinguish Hg through our dedication to advancing gender equality within the private equity and technology sectors.

Understanding the pay gap

Our gender pay gap figures reveal that, on average, men at Hg receive higher compensation than women.

This is despite an increase in senior female hires which has helped to reduce our mean hourly pay and bonus gaps.

The disparity in our gaps persist because senior positions at Hg offer greater financial rewards, and despite our recent firmwide diversity advancements, we still have limited gender diversity at these higher levels. Additionally, our gender distribution is disproportionately female in lower-compensated positions, such as our Executive Support Team, which represented over 15% of our total workforce as of 5 April 2024.

The figures presented in this report do not measure equal pay – an area we review comprehensively on an annual basis. For comparable positions, we maintain strong mechanisms to ensure our compensation approach is fair and equitable throughout our organisation.

Reducing the gender pay gap requires time, and we are taking deliberate measures, such as expanding our pipeline of female investment executives joining the firm while also implementing targeted female recruitment at senior levels. We will continue to focus on attracting, developing and advancing women into more senior roles within our organisation.

Hourly pay

Our hourly pay disparity at Hg primarily stems from the higher proportion of men in senior positions, particularly within our investment and portfolio executive teams.

These leadership roles demand specialised expertise, carry greater responsibilities, and require extensive experience –consequently commanding higher base compensation, which is reflected in the hourly pay gap data.

Bonus pay

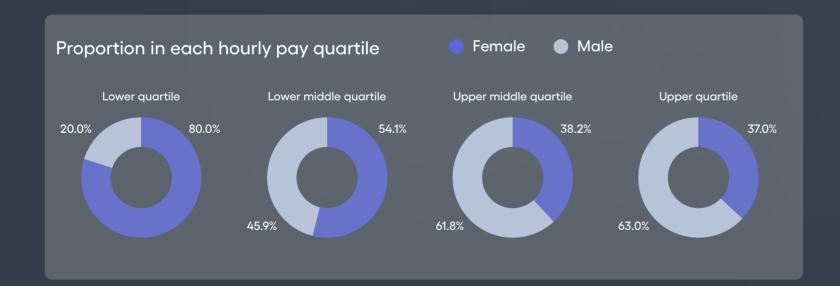

Higher levels of seniority in our organisation come with increased responsibility for our firm's and funds' performance, which is reflected in our compensation structure. Senior roles offer greater bonus potential, causing the bonus gap to be wider than the hourly pay gap.

Our hourly pay and bonus pay gap figures are also influenced by other reward elements like carry-related bonuses which are allocated to investment teams. The components of this pay directly relate to investment outcomes and pay out sporadically - in line with business exits from our funds.

More information on these initiatives can be found in our annual D&I Report and also further below in this document.

Our journey and what we're doing to improve our gender pay gap

2019

Our D&I strategy and efforts are formalised. The strategy included specific ambitions set by the Hg Board to better drive and measure progress.

2020

We launched our D&I Steering Group which reports directly to the Board and aims to lay the foundations for a fully inclusive culture and environment at Hg, where all diversity is welcomed, encouraged and celebrated.

2021

Our initial ambition was to reach more than 30% female executives by March 2021, and more than 35% by March 2022. We achieved both ambitions. This year we also proudly onboarded one of Europe's largest Analyst & Associate cohorts in Private Equity, which is the most diverse we have had at Hg; consisting of 54% women.

At the start of 2022, we challenged ourselves further and set ambitions to improve ethnic diversity within Hg, which is also being tracked at Board level. We achieved 23% ethnic diversity across our UK and US offices. We also focused on increasing and measuring socioeconomic diversity and are actively looking to increase representation within our organisation.

2023

Alongside our efforts to increase awareness and education on key D&I topics, we introduced an employee engagement tool, Peakon, that measures employee perceptions of our efforts to maintain a diverse workforce and create an environment where every individual feels included. We were pleased to report strong net promoter scores, or employee satisfaction, across inclusiveness and nondiscrimination within our firm.

2024

We have evolved our D&I steering group into the Hg Culture Committee, to help further drive our D&I initiatives. The committee conducted research across Hg to devise a series of long- and short-term priorities to advance our culture and ensure Hg is a place where everyone can bring their true selves to work and be successful whilst doing so.
