Singita Community Culinary School

SINGITA KRUGER NATIONAL PARK

The Singita Community Culinary School is a unique programme that serves to fulfil a real need in the community, as well as for the South African hospitality industry. Graduates of this school emerge with highly sought-after skills and strong employment prospects, while kitchens at Singita lodges and those further afield benefit from a pool of expertly-trained young chefs.

The school's demonstration studio offers a unique experience for guests to participate in a cooking class led by an expertly trained chef. All proceeds from these classes contribute to the Singita Community Culinary School Student Scholarship Fund.

Guests may choose to cook a popular, traditional South African dish on offer.

Classes should be booked at least 24 hours in advance to allow the chefs enough time to prepare. Classes may be scheduled 7 days a week, subject to availability.

Bookings may be made through Singita Reservations or booked on-site at Singita Lebombo and Sweni Lodges.

ZAR 3,800 donation per person, per class.

This experience is always subject to live operations and training schedules and may change at any time.

Community/Cultural Experience

Visit the RISE Centre (Research & Innovation for the Serengeti Ecosystem) with a mission to create innovative tools and solutions to combat the most pressing conservation issues and challenges of our time. RISE aims to develop and support research initiatives that provide tangible and resilient solutions to benefit the people and wildlife of the Serengeti ecosystem and beyond.

Guests can also visit the Grumeti Fund Environmental Education Centre, where local secondary school students and their teachers learn about the critical role each individual plays in minimizing his or her impact on the earth's limited resources. If it is during term time and a class is in session, there may be an opportunity to engage with the students.

Guests will experience various projects pioneered by the Grumeti Fund in the surrounding community such as GHOMACOS (Grumeti Horticultural & Marketing Cooperative Society). GHOMACOS is the agricultural co-operative which the Grumeti Fund helped local farmers to establish. It supplies the Singita lodge kitchens and staff canteens with a constant flow of high-quality, locally grown, organic vegetables, fruits and herbs.

Community Visit

Guests at Singita Volcanoes National Park have the unique opportunity to visit the small village of Gasura in the Kinigi sector, which is located 30 minutes from the lodge. The interactive tour takes approximately two hours and includes a range of authentic Rwandese cultural experiences.

Taking guests from house to house in the village, this involves everything from meeting local crafters weaving baskets and carving gorilla-trekking sticks to learning how to process locally produced staples - such as stomping cassava roots and grinding sorghum for flour. It also includes visiting families in their homes to get a glimpse of the local lifestyle.

Duration: +/- 2 hours (Suggested time: 9am or 2pm)

USD 60 donation per person.

Akarabo Nursery

Named Akarabo - which means 'little flower' in Kinyarwanda - our on-site nursery was born from our commitment to help reforest, rehabilitate and maintain the habitat of Rwanda's endangered mountain gorillas. Initially, 60,000 saplings were bought from local growers and earmarked for the 178 acres of land Singita Volcanoes National Park sits on. This number quickly grew to 250,000 saplings, even before the lodge opened, and continues to increase as we keep expanding our reforestation efforts in the area.

Guests are encouraged to visit the nursery to plant an indigenous tree as part of the ongoing rewilding and reforestation of the property as part of the formal buffer zone expansion of the formal Volcanoes National Park expansion, offering additional buffer zone territory for the gorillas and many other wildlife.
