STUDENT STORY: BETHANY

“The conventional route to success looks different for everyone,” says Bethany.

“During my last year of high school, I was quite lost in terms of what I wanted to do with my life. When I fell short from getting my Level 3 qualification at high school, I didn’t really believe in myself. But after doing my Level 3 at the New Zealand School of Tourism, I felt the tutors and the environment really fit my learning style — allowing me to thrive.”

Bethany’s experience has made her feel prepared to enter the job market. She says her studies have taught her how to be work-ready and world-ready — key skills for a professional in the travel and tourism industry.

“Here we are taught to look at life realistically in preparation for the real world. Our trainers encourage us to present ourselves as professionals when we come into campus. This means always dressing in corporate wear, being on time and striving for excellence each and every day.”

“I have very proud Samoan parents. My dad is always pushing me to keep going and reiterates the Samoan line; Fai ma le fa’amaoni, which means keep striving for greatness but do it with humility, confidence and pride. That’s what I live my life by and what I’ve been exercising throughout my studies here.”

Embodying “Fai ma le fa’amaoni” and her new-found confidence, Bethany is finishing her Level 6 Diploma in Tourism & Travel Management with the intention of progressing to an even higher level of study.

“Fai ma le fa’amaoni: keep striving for greatness but do it with humility, confidence and pride. That’s what I live my life by and what I’ve been exercising throughout my studies.”

► BETHANY’S NZ SCHOOL OF TOURISM HIGHLIGHTS

Course highlight

The opportunities that come along with studying here. The bonds and relationships that are created are amazing.

Flight path

At first I wanted to do the flight attending course and never thought I’d even make it to Level 5. I thought the more I learned, the more opportunities I’d have, so I decided to keep learning and growing right through to Level 6.

What NZ School of Tourism has taught me

Studying here right from Level 3 really helped me become ‘Work Ready, World Ready’. No matter what level you study, the tutors have high expectations of you in terms of attendance, academics, presentation and grooming, which is a good thing.

Words of advice

When going for jobs and engaging with people in the industry day-to-day, first impressions are everything.

STUDENT STORY: ASH

Hundreds of our graduates have secured an internship with Walt Disney World resorts in a range of operational roles.

At the age of 22, Ash was offered the opportunity of a lifetime to work at the 'most magical place on earth' — jet setting to Walt Disney World Florida for a 12-month internship.

Ash thrived in her role as a Character Performer — channelling her inner-princess to entertain children and families who came for the whimsical Walt Disney World experience.

"It's hard to believe this was work."

Radiating confidence in everything that she does, her shy adolescent self has become a distant memory.

"I used to be the quietest person in the room. Post-internship, I have evolved into an assertive leader. I see now that I always had it in me, I just needed the right environment."

Prior to her studies, Ash worked long shifts in a role that didn't fulfil her thrill-seeking aspirations for adventure. Now she has work experience with one of the most iconic entertainment outlets in the world and is close to gaining her Level 6 Diploma in Tourism & Travel Management.

"I'm a lively personality with a thirst to learn and explore the world. I'm grateful to the NZ School of Tourism for preparing me for a career in travel and tourism that really harvests that."

► ASH'S NZ SCHOOL OF TOURISM HIGHLIGHTS

Course highlight

My internship at Disney World was a once-in-a-lifetime experience. People aren't exaggerating when they say it's the best experience of your life — it really is!

Flight path

I studied at NZST from Level 3 right through to Level 6. I want to keep developing my management and leadership skills.

What NZ School of Tourism has taught me

Confidence is so important, and NZST has given me the confidence and courage to become a leader. If you're confident in what you're saying, then people will follow you.

Words of advice

Come to NZST! You don't just learn about tourism, it's so much more than that. If you don't know where you want to be in life, you'll know after studying here.

STUDENT STORY: BEN

Securing a job at 4.5 star rated hotel, Sudima Hotels, is just the start of 19-year-old Ben's flourishing career in the service industry.

Sudima Hotels is a national network with locations in Auckland, Rotorua, Christchurch, Queenstown and Kaikōura. As the country's first Toitū CarboNZero certified hotel, it exemplifies the best in sustainable architecture and systems with world-class features such as self-care designed rooms and a plant-focused restaurant cuisine.

"I came from pretty humble beginnings. Born in Fiji, my family didn't have a whole lot of career options to choose from — especially jobs that allowed them to live and work in a major city. Their seemingly unreachable dream is within my sights, and I feel so blessed!"

Ben will soon graduate with a Level 6 Diploma in Tourism & Travel Management, and he is bursting at the seams to start working in the industry and progress into a leadership role.

"My next goal is to work at The Broadmoor resort in Colorado Springs in the US. I like the idea of living on my own in a completely different country so I can continue building my confidence and independence."

Ben was nominated to be a student class rep, exemplifying his matured skills in leadership.

"Confidence is the key to success, no matter what you do. I've found that within myself here at the NZ School of Tourism and it has unlocked a world of possibilities for me in the tourism and hospitality industry."

► BEN'S NZ SCHOOL OF TOURISM HIGHLIGHTS

Course highlight

At NZST you're constantly practicing teamwork and interpersonal communication through classwork and assessments. Everyone plays a part in your development, from the trainers to the students.

Flight path

In high school I wanted to be a flight attendant which is what brought me here in the first place. But NZST is so much more than that and I'm so glad I ended up in the management route.

What NZ School of Tourism has taught me

Definitely confidence. At high school I was so shy and couldn't talk in front of people, but since being at NZST I've developed so much confidence.

Words of advice

Believe in yourself. Because I was so shy when I started at NZST, I had no idea I would be capable enough to be in a management or leadership role, but now I believe in myself.

FLIGHT ATTENDING & AVIATION
