A population lavender, naturally grown without any human intervention

One of the most rare, exquisite, and potent essential oils due to its very limited harvest

Each bottle has a unique aromatic experience due to the diverse range of Wild Lavender plants

Has a calming aroma that can create a tranquil and clarifying environment

Has soothing and moisturizing properties to support youthful skin

DID YOU KNOW?

Gary Young stayed in the village of Séderon when he first came to France to learn how to find and distill the finest plants and essential oils worldwide.

The Wild Lavender is harvested from wild plants that grow in Provence, while the traditional Lavender is harvested from cultivated plants.
