

Intro Marie Alessi

Marie is a bestselling Author, TEDx and Keynote Speaker. After her husband unexpectedly passed from a brain aneurysm, she dedicated her life to allowing healing, and creating happiness for her young family. Becoming a widow at the age of 45 was nothing Marie had anticipated. Having a very different approach to grief, she started sharing her story in a few books, and well featured publications. This most beautiful Love legacy for her husband turned into her Keynote “The Power of Grief”.

Short Bio Marie Alessi

Marie is a mother to two boys, a bestselling Author, TEDx and Keynote Speaker. After her husband passed from a brain aneurysm, she chose Happiness as their North Star. Little did they know that they had chosen this path for their young boys, years before Rob’s death. Rob had taught her the concept of two choices – and this path was followed in his honour; to continue the Love and connection they had.

Marie has become a shining example of choosing Love over fear and sadness. She offers hope, healing and happiness to the world, when people expect it the least, and need it the most. Marie has been featured in countless media publications, and today she shares her Keynote “The Power of Grief”.

Long Bio Marie Alessi

Marie is a mother to two boys, a bestselling Author, TEDx and Keynote Speaker. After her husband passed from a brain aneurysm, she chose Happiness as their North Star. Little did they know that they had chosen this path for their young boys, 3 years before Rob’s death:

Following a 2-hour detour caused by fatal accident on Rob’s usual way home, the couple had a “what if” conversation that night, in which they decided for each other “If something was to ever happen to me, I want you to create the happiest life possible for you and the boys!”

Rob had taught Marie the concept of two choices and reminded her of them often. She followed this path in his honour; to continue the Love and connection they had.

Marie has become a shining example of choosing Love over fear and sadness. She offers hope, healing and happiness to the world, when people expect it the least, and need it the most. After her first book “Loving Life after Loss” ranked in the top 100 bestseller list in Australia, she continued sharing her story in further books and hundreds of interviews on international summits and speaker panels.

Marie has been featured in numerous media publications, and today she shares her Keynote “The Power of Grief”.