Providing valuable payments data analysis that improves performance

At Worldpay, we know that offering valuable reporting and insights will help you run your business more efficiently. That's why we provide you with the ability to view and compare your sales trends to better understand how your business is performing on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

Worldpay helps turn your payments data into a tangible and strategic asset by providing a window into your business operations. By giving you a view of your sales totals and a breakdown of your card transactions, you will get a data-driven look into your customers' spending patterns. We also offer an analytics platform that automatically gathers all of your processor, acquirer and gateway reports. Data is broken down into actionable insights with no effort required from you.

Don't waste time trying to connect the data dots. We make managing data easy by helping you monitor and understand your payments, streamlining your workflows and giving you valuable insights into your customers' behaviors and payment preferences.

Three ways your business benefits

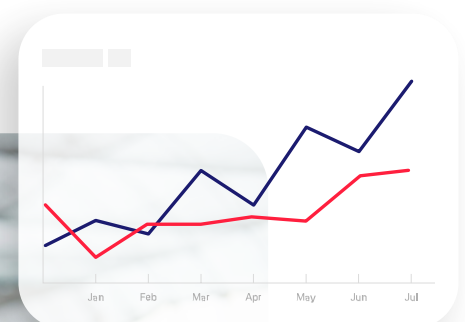

Comprehensive and transparent reporting

Valuable insights

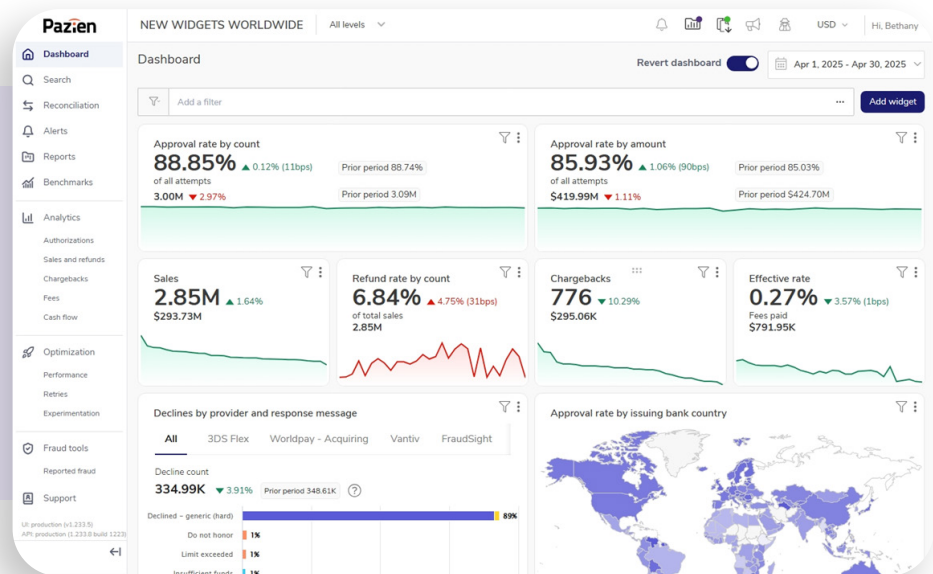

Increased efficiency

Choose the right fit for your business

Your payments data can become a substantial benefit. Our powerful reporting tools make your data fully visible, manageable and actionable.

This portal allows you to identify changes in approval rates for specific country, provider and payment method as well as drill into chargebacks to reduce fraud and processing errors. With customized reports, you can use the portal to spot sales spikes and maximize revenue.

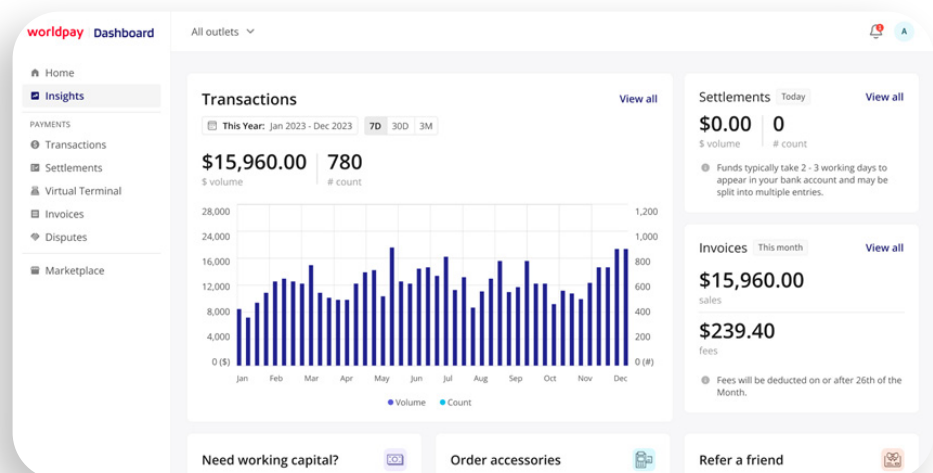

Optimizing your operations

From transaction processing to customer service, this portal is designed to support the operational side of your business. It helps you manage risk and respond to chargeback cases. You can streamline your chargebacks through advanced workflow management and automated processes. Compliance reporting ensures that your risk is simple to analyze, so finding cases and their related payments is easy.

The power of our portals
