

The chance to run and play

Nine-year-old Ethan lives with his mum, dad and younger brother and sister. He's clever, funny and loves playing with his friends.

Ethan has a condition called cerebral palsy that affects his movement and speech. Since he was small he's been going to Steps Conductive Education Centre, which is helped by money from Comic Relief. With the support of the centre, his family and friends, Ethan learnt to sit up, walk and run.

By raising money this Red Nose Day, you'll be helping children here in the UK and around the world to have the best possible start in life. Find out more about how to get involved at comicrelief.com/ethan

“My mum loves Steps, she says I wouldn't be the superhero I am today without them.”

Join in with Ethan

Ethan loves baking, playing computer games, walking the dog and football. Why don't you join in with him to raise money this Red Nose Day?

You could:

- Make and sell cakes
- Organise a virtual gameathon
- Go for a sponsored dog walk
- Have a penalty shootout
